

It is frustrating that with nearly 1000 TV channels together with AM & FM radio, there is far too little programming of interest . Copy-cat formats and subjects are rampant, motivated by ratings. The "sameness" is boring and numbing the populace. The media has a responsibility to educate, inform, inspire and provoke thought in its audience and be the vehicle for a renaissance that would coincide with the emergence of today's outstanding technology.